'ଏକଦିନୀୟ ଜାତୀୟ ସମ୍ମିଳନୀର ବିଭିନ୍ନ ଦିଗରୁ ସାନ୍ତାଳୀ ଭାଷା ଉପରେ ଆଲୋଚନା'

Date : 23rd December, 2024 (Monday)

About the Seminar:

“So long as script is alive, your language is alive; so long as Dhorom is alive you are alive.

The moment you lose your script, your language will be disappeared. The moment you lose your Dhormo, You will meet your final end” - Guru Gamke Pandit Raghunath Murmu

The main objective of this one-day national seminar is to emphasize on the diverse aspects of Santali language. Santali language remains one of India's rich language and has a long historical tradition. The idea through this academic engagement is to comprehend the ancient, medieval and modern aspects related to the growth of Santali literature. Santali language which belongs to the Austric language group is primarily spoken in the east-central Indian states of West Bengal, Bihar, Jharkhand, Orissa and Assam. The language also has its roots in Nepal, Bhutan, Bangladesh. Basically the Santal tribes speak the Santali language. The Santali language has its own script called Olchiki. The Santal community has conserved its own distinct society, culture and religion through its language and literature. As an eighth schedule language it remains in focus and needs more engagement for its preservation and conservation. Language remains an important entity for any society with regards to its representation. And for the Santal people the language has not only protected their identity, but also their rich heritage and culture. The seminar will be an engagement with one of the most ancient language of this nation. The sub – themes of the seminar are as follows.
